

Michael Henss is a retired combat veteran of Operation Iraqi Freedom. He is a U.S. Army Special Forces Detachment Weapons and Tactics Specialist, seasoned in instruction and training of U.S. and multi-national personnel. He has extensive skill in developing and executing specialized weapons and tactics training for Special Forces A-teams, as well as providing small unit tactics and close quarter battle instruction to U.S. and Iraqi security forces. He is an experienced and knowledgeable Special Forces leader with extensive background in development, organization and execution of Antiterrorism and Force Protection Plans. He has conducted physical security vulnerability assessments of numerous government and high risk facilities, as well as implemented counter-measures to mitigate threats to U.S. interests. Michael also enjoys competing in firearms competitions and is a member of the USPSA. He is also an NRA Basic Pistol Instructor and a life member of the NRA.

